HOAGLAND'S
NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!
W. E. COOPER

HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive

Carriage Factory,
Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.
He respectfully refers to the following
CARD.

Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. B. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.

It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore, easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.

It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO SEPTEMBER 30.

New York News.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Stormy debates have occurred in the gold room. There was alternate remarkable depression and buoyancy. Failures, receiverships and injunctions form a group of events which made the day without an equal in the annals of Wall street. The statement of the gold exchange bank was presented to the gold board expressing the belief that the Bank is solvent and able to pay all debts. The Bank has not failed or suspended. It paid Monday's obligations at clearing hour in gold at par, and on Tuesday one million of gold and about thirteen hundred thousand in securities. The result of the investigation of the Committee of twenty so far as ascertained, shows that dealers are short with the gold exchange and clearing house about ten millions of gold, which Smith, Gould, Martin & Co. offer to sell them at 135.

George Peabody sailed per steamer Scotia for Europe.

Lockwood & Co., one of the wealthiest houses in the street and most influential, made an assignment of their affairs to-day to Capt. John Packer. Their exact position on the market is not known.

The Commercial says the new steamer Alabama went to sea on Sunday with 200 volunteers for Cuba. Secretary Fish assured Dr. Simmons that the Government would promptly grant every facility in its power to gain full redress for the damages sustained by him in Cuba.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—A quorum of the Executive Committee of the National Republican Association, in consequence of the defection of their Chairman, issued a call for a meeting of that body in New York, Oct. 29th. Members from all States and Territories are expected to attend.

New York Republican Convention.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 19.—The Republican Convention at its afternoon session, made John A. Griswold permanent President.

Judge Pierrepont from the Committee on Resolutions presented the Platform of the Convention, which is as follows:

That the public debt, principal and interest, shall be paid in coin; taxation ought to be equal and simple and as little burdensome to citizens as possible; that the Government is bound by the most sacred obligations to protect citizens, whether native or foreign born wherever they may go; that every American citizen, whether naturalized or native, shall have rights of suffrage without regard to nation, race or color; that the fifteenth amendment ought to be adopted; that we deeply sympathize with all down-trodden oppressed people everywhere; that whenever facts in the possession of our Government will justify the recognition of Cuban belligerency, we shall heartily approve such recognition, and pledge our cordial support to the army and action on the part of the Government tending to the final annexation of Cuba, whenever she shall have achieved her independence and the people shall desire such action. Other resolutions indorse the action of President Grant, oppose the diversion of any State school fund to secretarian institutions, favor the enlargement of the canals and a consequent reduction of tolls thereon, and urge the passage of laws to prevent illegal voting. The platform was adopted. Resolutions touching the license question having been meantime introduced by O'Donnell, were tabled. A State ticket was then nominated as follows: Secretary of State, George William Curtis; Controller, Thomas Hillhouse; State Engineer, General John G. Robinson; Treasurer, Thomas S. Chatfield; Attorney General, Martin J. Townsend; State Prison Inspector, Daniel G. Conover; Judges of the Court of Appeals, the present incumbents, Woodruff and Mason. It appears that General Sigel declined to accept any nomination on account of ill health. The Central Committee was selected and the Convention adjourned.

Marshal for Utah.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—James M. Orr is appointed United States Marshal for Utah.

From Cuba.

HAVANA, Sept. 30.—General Delatorre has arrived and gives a flattering account of the progress of the Spanish forces in suppressing the insurrection in the Eastern Department.

The Havana journals are discussing the recent note of General Sickles. They express the wish that he might occupy some place better adapted to his abilities.

The attempt recently made to raise the insurgent standard in the Ulta Abaja region proved a failure. Several Cubans in that section are presenting themselves to the Spanish authorities for pardon.

Fires in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Nine fires occurred in this city within twelve hours, yesterday afternoon and evening. The most serious was one on Arch Avenue, which destroyed twelve buildings, all frame. Loss about $10,000. Soon after 11 P. M. a large stable on St. Clair street was burned. The stable contained twenty-two horses, and they all perished in the flames. Loss about $80,000.

Financial Matters.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—The Tribune's New York special says the financial skies are brightening somewhat, though they are far from clear. Smith, Gould, Martin & Co. is the only firm which was refused. There has been one cause for their failure to resume business which is, that the firm holds about six millions of gold and the gold board is short that amount. The firm want the board to buy that gold, making the settlement at 135 and paying all the difference. The board declines and is endeavoring to induce Secretary Boutwell to sell six millions. This will enable them to proceed without buying of the firm. Probably a plan will be proposed to day to harmonize the difference between Smith, Gould, Martin & Co. and the gold board.

The gold exchange bank appears in a dark situation and probably cannot survive, it being understood to have loaned heavily to Lockwood & Co. The feeling against Smith, Gould & Martin is very bitter for delaying the adjustment of their difficulties and the resumption of business mainly depends upon them. If they make no settlement with the board there will be many failures, but if they consent to an amicable adjustment, comparatively few houses will go down.

The New York "Times."

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Mr. Bigelow has resigned the position of chief editor of the New York Times. The subordinate editors will be tried one after another in that capacity until the right man is reached.

Internal Revenue Decision

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The Special Commissioner of Internal Revenue, decides that wholesale apothecaries and druggists, doing business under a regular license, must cease to sell liquors in quantities less than half a pint a time, or pay the special tax required of liquor dealers. The decision also covers the sales of alcohol of over five hundred gallons at a time.

Condition of some of the Stock Gamblers

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The Times says of the failure of Lockwood & Co., that Lockwood & Co. and all their colleagues have placed their entire personal property in the hands of J. Packer, to whom they made an assignment for the benefit of their creditors. The principal creditors of the firm reside at Chicago, Cleveland and other cities. They are all wealthy men, embracing such capitalists as A. M. Stone and W. White, Cleveland. They have been telegraphed to come to this city and are expected to arrive in season for the meeting on Friday, when the situation of affairs will be more developed. At present the firm are unable to state their exact condition. It was reported on the street that they are credited with holding a large amount of Pacific Mail, Michigan Southern, Northwestern and St. Paul stock; also that they have been short on the New York Central for the past twelve months, but rumors on the street must be received with great caution.

At the Fifth Avenue Hotel last night there was an excited crowd until midnight. The general feeling was that relief was at hand and men could again breathe freely. It was generally thought that the depression in stocks is due to the stringency of the money market produced by delay in effecting the clearances of gold and currency accounts on Broad street, but some believed that some of the most prominent stocks in the market would not recover from their present downfall.

The Times says an application for an injunction against the gold room selling Smith, Gould & Martin out under the rules, makes an extraordinary confession that forty million dollars of gold were bought and sold on account of the plaintiffs (Gould & Smith) in a single day. The Times says that Judge Cordoza, in granting this injunction restraining the Gold Exchange from enforcing its own rules, only furnished another illustration of the wicked purposes to which our judicial system may be perjured.

Cuban Affairs.

KEY WEST, Sept. 30.—Advices from Nassau state that five Cubans arrived there on the 22d from Quesada's camp. Gen. Quesada sent by them twenty thousand dollars for the purchase of arms. The attack on Los Altens was a victory for the Cubans. All the Spaniards who could not get into the stronghold were taken prisoners and killed, and the Spanish officers taken prisoners were immediately shot. The Patriots were in good spirits, and important dispatches have been received here for the Cuban Junta at New York.

Miscellaneous.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 29.—It is expected an additional track will soon be laid for the Louisville and Nashville road, on account of the rapidly growing business of the road.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—The New Jerusalem Church, on Cherry street, was damaged by fire this morning. Another fire damaged the Church of the United Brethren, in the 20th Ward.

FALL RIVER, Sept. 29.—The Dighton Rolling Mill and Nail Factory was entirely consumed by fire to-day; insured only for a third of its value.

QUEBEC, Sept. 29.—Captain Armstrong has arrived at Gaspe to select a landing place for the Canadian and European Atlantic telegraph.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29.—The ninth annual Fair of the St. Louis Agricultural and Mechanical Association will commence next Monday. It promises to exceed any previous exhibition. The entries up to last night were equal to the total number of last year, and are being made at the rate of 500 daily. The stock departments are overflowing. The Association has been obliged to erect over a hundred additional stalls. All departments will be very full. The exhibition of hogs will probably be the largest and finest ever made in this country.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 29.—The Republican says Wm. A. Richardson has resigned his position as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 29.—The steamer Clinton from Galveston, picked up a boat of the steamer Trade Wind. It contained the Captain, 1st mate and 13 passengers. The other boat is still missing.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Lord Clarendon has returned from Paris. He delivered an address before the Herefordshire Agricultural Society to-night, in the course of which he acknowledged that the subject of the tenure of land in Ireland was a momentous and vital one, but he said it should not be considered as a party question. The evils connected with the land system must be abated. Their solution is difficult but not impossible. The Government will not adopt any wild or subversive scheme. The promoters of such a plan were the enemies of all equitable settlement and friends to the Irish people. He asked if there was language strong enough to condemn the land holder who ejected a tenant and reaped the whole benefit of that tenant's labor and expenditure. This course was too often followed. The evil must be abated. He believed the rights of property should be scrupulously upheld and its duties enforced by law. He said the Government intended to introduce a measure which would command the respect, support and praise of every honest man.

News from Rio Janeiro is to the 7th, and fully confirms the flight of Lopez.

The Times' Paris correspondent asserts that there is but little hope of a compromise between Spain and the Cubans. The sentiment of both parties is adverse to it. The Spanish say in so many words—lay down your arms, send deputies to the Cortes, and if you will be as Canada, we are willing. If you desire independence, we don't say no. The matter may be arranged, but disarm. Spain's motto is nothing but compulsion.

MADRID, Sept. 29.—The troubles of Barcelona are quelled and the city is tranquil. One hundred and twenty-six persons were arrested for complicity. The escaped fugitives have destroyed the telegraph wires and railroad tracks to prevent capture. Troops have been sent in pursuit. Reinforcements were sent to Cuba to-day. It is reported in official circles that the recent note of Sickles has been withdrawn.

At the Council of Ministers to-day it was agreed to propose to the Cortes the election of the Duke of Genoa as King of Spain. The press, without exception, received with great enthusiasm the letter of the King of Portugal declining to be a candidate for the throne of Spain.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 29.—The mediation of the great powers of Europe, between Turkey and Egypt, has been satisfactory. None of the points presented, save one, have offered any difficulty.

BORDEAUX, Sept. 29.—A fire last evening among the shipping, consumed thirty vessels laden with petroleum. The loss is heavy.

LISBON, Sept. 29.—The mail steamer from Rio brings advices from Paraguay to August 23d.

On the 9th the allied army attacked the forces of President Lopez which were intrenched at Ourhquaty. The Paraguayans were entirely defeated, losing 1,000 killed and 300 prisoners. Twelve cannon were also captured. Lopez with the remainder of his army fled to Ignacion, a short distance away. On the 21st he was again attacked by the allies and again defeated, losing in the engagement 25 cannon. Count D'Eu, the General commanding the allies, at last advices, was closely pursuing the fugitives. Owing to these victories the Paraguayans were compelled to abandon all their steamers. These subsequently fell into the hands of the allies. Forty-four British subjects who have lately been held in confinement by Lopez were promptly liberated. The provisional government of Asuncion had declared Lopez an outlaw.

Paying the Debt

The Republican Convention of New York declares with emphasis that our national debt should be paid in gold. This is simply asserting that it should be paid in full, according to agreement, and not paid with one-half or one-third of the amount promised. The[illegible] is that in the propositions of the oppo[illegible]rty which goes against the conscience of the country, and the Republicans are strong in the position they have taken because it is felt instinctively by the people that this position is the only one which will satisfy the demands of honesty and keep the national honor bright in the sight of mankind.

As the opposition are again shouting in concert for Pendleton's greenback scheme, it is interesting to remember that in 1862 they were very anxious that the "bloated bondholders" should have coin. When the the law authorizing the five-twenties was originated, the Senate thought that it would improve the market value of the bonds and give greater assurance and security to purchasers, to insert a clause providing that the interest should be paid in gold. The principal object of this was to notify all who might be disposed to invest just what the advantages offered were. But a majority of the Republicans in the House thought this clause unnecessary. Pendleton, however, was a member of that body, and he warmly advocated the measure. All Democrats but two voted to declare the interest payable in coin. Pendleton voted in favor of that proposition. Forty-three Republicans voted for it and fifty-five against it; while of the forty-seven Democrats in the House, forty-five voted to insert the clause specifically declaring that the "bloated bondholders" should have their interest in gold. It is very edifying to hear Pendleton Democrats, in the face of this record, talking about gold for the bondholder and rags for the people.

Of course every intelligent person knows why Pendleton and his political associates in Congress in 1842 voted in this way. They thought the Government would not be able to raise the gold to pay the interest, and that it would thus break down in the effort to suppress the rebellion. They voted for it on the same principle that they voted to pay the soldiers in coin when they did not want them paid at all. And now they want to repudiate the debt in part or in whole, because it goes against their principles to pay a debt that was incurred in suppressing a rebellion which was gotten up by their political friends, and which had their sympathy and encouragement throughout.

Labor Unions

The "workingmen's movement," started at East Portland, is we believe, the first movement of the kind which has been attempted in Oregon. Trades-Unions or Co-operative Societies, if conducted on correct principles, may result in much good. Artisans may combine and carry on great enterprises on their own account; and if proper management be had, experience has shown that large profits may be obtained. In such a society members may not only make the wages they obtain under the ordinary methods of labor, but may also have dividends on the shares they hold, or on the profits of the business. The association at East Portland has not proceeded far enough to enable us to become acquainted with its methods and objects. Whether it will take a political turn, or not, we are not advised. In this connection we present the the following from the Chicago Tribune of Sept. 15th, which contains much wise suggestion and sound argument, compressed in a small space: "The attempt by men working for wages to make their deprivation of capital, or their inability to save money, the basis for the formation of a political party is necessarily a union of the weak to rule the strong. By acting unitedly in and through the other political parties, they may accomplish much; independently, they can do nothing."

An Idaho Authority.

The editor of a Radical daily alleges that "a State has not and never had, this right to make Chinese, or other foreigners, coming into or residing within its borders, pay special taxes." The editor of the Albany Democrat, whose statement is quoted, is undoubtedly correct, and can cite a case recently decided in Idaho, in support of his position.—Herald.

The Idaho court has just about the dignity and learning of a Pike county justice of the peace. The Supreme Court of the Territory will reverse the decision; or, if it does not, the Supreme Court of the United States undoubtedly will. The idea of citing a decision made by an obscure court in Idaho against the opinions of the highest judicial tribunal of the nation, (see VII Howard, U. S. Supreme Court Reports), is characteristic of the editorial triflers who find employment on the Democratic press of Oregon. We had no idea the editors of the Herald and Enterprise knew anything about this subject, but did expect to find the editor of the Democrat treating it more intelligently than he has done.

In General.

The membership of the Congregational Church in the United States is 269,000. The number added during the past year is 16,761. The churches of the denomination number 3,069.

Cincinnati is greatly agitated by the proposition to exclude the Bible from the public schools. A dozen clergymen have fulminated from their pulpits against it, and thirty thousand people have signed a protest.

If the taxation of national bonds is demanded as a measure of justice for the people, why didn't the Democracy tax them when they were in power? In Buchanan's time the debt amounted to seventy millions; but did any one then ever hear of a proposition to tax the bonds of the Government? During the greater portion of the time while that party was in power they had a national debt, yet they never collected a dollar by way of taxation from the "bloated bondholders."

The San Francisco Call, as the Sacramento Union observes, is severe on the Chinese Government for allowing the people in some of the provinces of that vast Empire remote from Pekin to burn up Christian meeting-houses and kill the missionaries. This sort of conduct is very wicked and ought not to be tolerated. But it is just possible that there may be some provinces in China as meanly governed as the State of California, where the law (as is well known) gives no more protection to a Chinaman against wicked whites disposed to rob or kill him, than he would have had twenty years ago among the Blackfeet Indians.

Louis II. of Bavaria wants to be morganatically married to a pretty and poetic maiden of noble lineage, but she insists on being either a queen or an old maid.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30.—Senor Jose Godoy, Mexican Consul, died suddenly last night while attending the Seward presentation at the Occidental Hotel. He was 51 years of age, and leaves a wife and two children. Mexican and American flags at the Hotels and other points in the city are at half mast out of respect to his memory.

Hon. W. H. Seward was presented with a magnificent cane at the Pioneers' Hall last night. The presentation was made by W. Winans, President, on behalf of the Pioneers. The party then adjourned to the Occidental Hotel, where Mr. Seward was presented with a gold cigar case and snuff-box, by Judge Curry, on behalf of his California friends.

The steamer Golden City sailed for Panama this noon 250 passengers, $387,000 treasure and $158,000 worth of merchandise. Among the passengers were Hon. Wm. H. Seward, Fred. Seward and wife. By special arrangement the steamer will land them at Manzanilla.

An unknown man, apparently 25 years old, clothed in shirt and drawers, was washed ashore to day at North Beach near the Ocean View House.

The ship Ocean Express sailed this noon for Liverpool. When off Fort Point one of her sailors jumped overboard and swam toward shore. The schooner Melden, bound out, lowered a boat with the mate and two men to capture him when the boat capsized, drowning the two men. A second boat was lowered by the schooner and the runaway sailor captured.

The weather has been delightful all day, with a light north-west wind.

NEVADA.

VIRGINIA CITY, Sept. 30.—A Chinaman was thrown from his horse on C street this afternoon and broke his leg.

The funeral of Bennetts was attended this afternoon by a large concourse of his friends and countrymen.

No new movements against the Chinese railroad employees to-day. Work is suspended on the Virginia end of the road and large numbers of white men are turned out of employment in consequence of this raid upon the company. Public sentiment is divided. The majority rather countenancing the act of the miners union.

The Enterprise while condemning the act says, it would be unfair to overlook the circumstances that have tended to provoke it, such as the mismanagement of our leading mines by grasping monopolies and the reckless waste of the substance of the commonwealth. It thinks a jury could not be obtained that would convict a member of the mob.

The Carson Appeal vigorously denounces the rioters and the Gold Hill News supports it therein.

FROM THE NORTH.

SEATTLE, Sept. 30.—The English gunboat Forward was sold Tuesday at Esquimalt to Messrs. Millard and Beedy, of Victoria, for $7,000.

The steamer Emma will hereafter run between Victoria and Port Townsend, leaving Victoria every Tuesday and Friday.

James Murphy, mate of the steamer Phantom, was killed by James Nixon in a shooting affray in this town a few days since. Nixon delivered himself up to the authorities and was acquitted on the ground of self-defense.

The Chicago Tribune tells a comical story of a highly sentimental dry goods clerk in that city. He was lately married, and was so filled with his own happiness that he was impelled to impart it to surrounding objects. It has been his habit to write poetry of a lovesick sort on scraps of paper that lay about the store, and on the piles of wrapping paper in which goods were enclosed. This peculiarity has been the source of much amusement to his fellow clerks. A few days ago, when the store was crowded with customers, a man came in with excitement visible in his hands, his hair, and his heaving breast, who stepped up to the happy poet, flourishing a piece of brown paper, and, pointing to some lines, asked him if he wrote them. The clerk was obliged to own that he did. The scene had now attracted all the persons in the store to the spot. The irate visitor directed the clerk to read the lines, which he did, aloud, as follows:

Come in the evening, or come in the morning,
Come when you're looked for, or come without warning,
Kisses and welcome shall be there before you,
And the oftener you come here, the more I'll adore you.

"There, sir, how dare you give such stuff to my wife—my wife whom I adore? You wretch!" It was some time before the explanation, which it was easy to make, proved satisfactory. It is needless to say that scribbling poetry on wrapping paper is forbidden in that store, lest some loving swain should again make the mistake of wrapping up a dress pattern for an innocent lady in verses intended by the author for the maiden of his own heart.

Mrs. Grant, on the 8th of September visited General Rawlins at her home in Danbury, to tender her sympathies in the hour of affliction. The coming of the President's wife was informal and unannounced, but her presence being ascertained the citizens of Danbury assembled to pay their respects to their distinguished visitor. Mrs. Grant left in the morning train for Washington, accompanied by Mrs. Rawlins, against the advice of the friends and physician of the latter lady, who is in a delicate state of health. The infant child of Mrs. Rawlins is dead.

THE WEST.

Philip Lebrecht, of the firm of Herman & Co., bankers of Silver City, Owyhee, died on the 25th September.

Dan Robbins, who was wounded near Malad City, a short time since, in the fight with the express robbers, has died of his wounds.

A miner named John Chauncey, an old resident of Owyhee, blew his brains out with a pistol, at his cabin near the Home Resort mine, of which he was part owner, on the 24th ult.

The Idaho World of the 23d says: The Agency of the First National Bank of Idaho, shipped from Idaho City during the week past, to New York city, over $50,000 in gold bars.

A large portion of Surprise Valley, Bull Run and Cope District, Independence, Pine Valley and Mineral Hill have, by virtue of a recent official survey, been thrown into Elko county, Nevada.

The Owyhee Tidal Wave of the 23d September says: A very sad accident occurred at the Golden Chariot mine on Sunday at noon. John Sparrow, in attempting to get into the bucket to be hoisted out of the third level, made a misstep and fell down the main shaft a distance of 93 feet, breaking both legs and bruising him most shockingly.

The Yale College Courant announces that there is little probability that Prof. Northrop will accept the Presidency of the Alabama University, although he has not positively declined. It is a singular fact that the university buildings, valued at $250,000, the libraries and cabinets were, in 1865, burned by a brigade of United States cavalry, under the command of Gen. Croxton, a classmate of Prof. Northrop.

Archbishop Blanchet, of the Catholic Chu[illegible] leaves Portland on the next steamer for San F[illegible] on his way to the great Ecumenical Council, [illegible] at Rome in December next.

FROM OREGON CITY.—We learn that People's T[illegible] tation Company have made arran[illegible] is with [illegible] of this city by which they will secure the [illegible] a period of [illegible] to work on the cana[illegible] gon City. My report [illegible] favorable in important respects, but as yet I can [illegible] idea of the kind of action to which it may lead."

IMPORTANT CASES.—Two cases of importance to [illegible] people of Portland and Multnomah [illegible] are now p[illegible] in the Supreme Court at Salem and will probably [illegible] posed of this [illegible]. One is the case of McColla[illegible] [illegible] county and the other O'Hara and wife vs. [illegible] Both are damage suits growing out of injuries [illegible] [illegible] in public thoroughfares. They met, with co[illegible] able difficulty in trying to [illegible] John [illegible] [illegible] of contributing $4 per head to keep the [illegible] ways in repair. John said "me no hab got," or [illegible] for me four dollar, no sabe."

NEW ARRIVALS.—There arrived from Olymp[illegible] night, Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Carlton, Geo. H. [illegible] and U. B. We understan[illegible] will shortly appear in Portland.

[illegible]—Among other amendments to the [illegible] law of the city, made at the last meeting of the Co[illegible] Council, is one which imposes a tax of ten dolla[illegible] quarter on all insurance agents doing busi[illegible] within the city limits. There are quite a numb[illegible] [illegible] in Portland, who will do well to give heed [illegible] [illegible] of this ordinance.

PREPARING.—We learn from a Salemite that [illegible] [illegible] for lodgers at the Capital have been a[illegible] [illegible] for, during the [illegible] State Fair. The [illegible] hotel accommodations, which one of [illegible] [illegible] thinks should be afforded near the gr[illegible] are not to be found in Salem to any great extent.

DRAMATIC ENTERTAINMENT.—Mrs. Fanny [illegible] Phelps will give a dramatic entertainment at Or[illegible] Hall to-morrow evening. She will probably be sup[illegible] by members of the Carlton & Edwards [illegible] [illegible] here. Programme will appear to-morrow.

ON THE BOARDS.—Miss Sue Robinson, well kno[illegible] [illegible] in Portland [illegible] years ago, [illegible] the [illegible] playing an engagement in Sacra[illegible] Worse players by far have the patience of [illegible] this city than Miss Robinson.

Estimated.—A farmer, having knowledge of the facts, estimates the loss of wheat in the Wallamet Valley, caused by the late rains, to be near a million bushels.

The receipts of produce at this place during the present week have been light, hardly up to the general average for this season of the year. This is probably owing to the low stage of the water and muddiness of the roads.

The Carrie is now at her wharf, foot of Washington street. She will, as we learn, soon resume her regular route between this city and Monticello.

The City Marshal advertises some stray swine which will be sold unless soon taken away by the owner.

A number of our citizens are preparing to attend the Washington County Fair, which will be held next week. Ample preparations are being made to make it a success.

Legal tenders were taken at seventy-five cents on the streets yesterday by collectors. Oregon is not "flooded with greenbacks" to hurt.

The East side Railroad Company has begun the erection of a wharf immediately above the ferry landing, opposite this city. This wharf is to be used for landing the iron and other material employed in building the road.

The steamer G. S. Wright sailed for Victoria yesterday evening, carrying a fair freight and ten or twelve passengers.

The Gussie Telfair will sail for Victoria and ports on Puget Sound, to-morrow afternoon.

A large scow is loading at the foot of Washington street with staves, hoops, poles and brick, to be conveyed down the Columbia.

A [illegible] granary is being built by McLeran, adjoining his flouring mill. It is constructed upon a raised foundation, and the sides rendered very solid, being made by laying three-quarter inch planks, one upon top of another, and all securely fastened by bolts and nails. Its capacity will be about 8,000 bushels.

Venison.—A farmer, who resides out near Sandy, came into town yesterday with four large fat deer. In his [illegible] Game is said to be abundant in the foot-hills of the [illegible] this fall.

We learn that several invalid persons are stopping at the Wilhoit Soda Springs for their health. We predict a rush for this resort next season.

Mr. Shively informs the Commercial that "real estate in San Francisco has gone down at least one hundred percent. The way some people figure, such a decline would leave land in that city valueless.

Bishop Blanchett, of the Catholic Church, will leave Portland on the next steamer for San Francisco, on his way to the great Ecumenical Council, to be held at Rome in December next.

From Oregon City.—We learn that People's Transportation Company have made arrangements with Wa Kee of this city by which they will secure the services of one [illegible] men to work on the canal at Oregon City. Some fifty Celestials went up yesterday and were set to work. When they were about to begin work, one of fifty-four white men employed by the company, one Mr. Michael O'Feely threw down his pick and swore he wouldn't disgrace himself by working by the side of Chinamen. The foreman told him that the company owed him for one and a half days work, which he paid, and Mr. O'Feely came down to Oregon City and avenged himself by getting on a "bust," and denouncing the P. T. Co. for employing Chinamen. It is thought that not more than three or four more of the white men will quit. The work on the canal is progressing with considerable rapidity, three sections having been excavated, the impossibility of procuring a sufficient number of hands has delayed the work to some extent. The company found it necessary to employ the Chinese in order to get the work sufficiently advanced before the rains raised the river.

N. P. R. R. Party.—We are permitted to make the following extract from a letter written by W. Milnor Roberts, of the North Pacific Railroad surveying party in the employ of Jay Cooke & Co., of Philadelphia, to J. [illegible] Esq., of this city. Mr. Roberts writing from [illegible] under date of Sept. 10th, says: "Last week we all arrived at Omaha where we separated. Mr. [illegible] was going to the upper end of Lake Superior and [illegible] via Chicago to his home in Burlington, Vt., and I presume he will make out his report to the R. R. Company. My report will be made to Messrs. Jay Cooke & Co., of Philadelphia, and I expect to leave here [illegible] next day for Pittsburg, and to be in Philadelphia the beginning of next week. My report will be [illegible] in important respects, but as yet I can form no idea of the kind of action to which it may lead."

Important Cases.—Two cases of importance to the tax-payers of Portland and Multnomah county are pending in the Supreme Court at Salem and will probably be disposed of this week. One is the case of McColla vs. Multnomah county, and the other O'Hara and wife vs. the city. Both are suits growing out of injuries caused by defects in public thoroughfares. Judgments were obtained in both instances against the defendants in the Circuit Court, in the first for $2,000 and in the latter for [illegible]

[illegible] Devices.—A man was arrested a few days ago for [illegible] and beating a woman in this city. [illegible] his name was placed on the book kept by the [illegible] for that purpose, but during the absence of that officer from his office some person had the temerity to [illegible] the name of the arrested party from the record with [illegible] We are not sure but a person thus meddling with public records stands a fair show to get [illegible] if he comes [illegible] into a more disreputable situation.

[illegible] Improvements.—The prosecution of street improvements for one or two more seasons with that vigor [illegible] shown the present, will furnish Portland [illegible] good streets and sidewalks as can be found in any city. The planking of Stark street is completed, and the [illegible] will soon be finished. Taylor street is planked [illegible] the [illegible] pavement on Front is laid up to [illegible] and [illegible] sidewalks laid on Seventh between Alder and Washington.

[illegible] Supervisor Potter, assisted by H. M. [illegible] of the police force, was engaged yesterday in [illegible] road tax due from the Chinamen living in [illegible] part of the city. They met with considerable [illegible] in trying to make John understand the [illegible] of contributing $2 per man to keep the highways [illegible] John said "me no hab got," or "spose, [illegible] no sabe."

[illegible] Every observing person passing about [illegible] will notice the barren appearance of the [illegible] of the public schoolhouses in this city. [illegible] not be well during the coming season for the [illegible] to take the necessary steps to plant out [illegible] and shrubbery on these grounds, that in [illegible] more sightly and pleasant.

[illegible]—The ladies connected with the A. M. E. [illegible] will give a grand supper in Carter's [illegible] corner of Alder and Front streets, this evening. [illegible] heretofore given by this congregation [illegible] in saying that this one will be highly [illegible] to all who may attend. The proceeds are to [illegible] pay off the Church indebtedness.

Arrivals.—There arrived from Olympia last [illegible] Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Carlton, Geo. H. Edmunds [illegible] Whitesides, of the Carlton & Edmunds troupe. [illegible] has been delighting the Sound people for the [illegible] and if all we hear of them is true, they [illegible] artists of no ordinary ability. We understand they [illegible] play in Portland.

[illegible] Among other amendments to the license [illegible] of the city, made at the last meeting of the Common Council, [illegible] one which imposes a tax of ten dollars per [illegible] on all insurance agents doing business as such within the city limits. There are quite a number of [illegible] in Portland who will do well to give heed to the [illegible] of this ordinance.

[illegible]—We learn from a Salemite that most all [illegible] the lodgings at the Capital have been already [illegible] during the coming State Fair. The "ex[illegible] accommodations," which one of our co[illegible] thinks should be afforded near the grounds, are not to be found in Salem to any great extent.

A Fine Chance to buy goods at very low rates, is offered by John Wilson, No. 127 Front street. He is [illegible] of a large stock of splendid dry goods at cost. [illegible] one of the most reliable and accommodating dealers in the city, and those wishing to purchase would do well to call on him.

[illegible] Entertainment.—Mrs. Fanny Morgan [illegible] will give a dramatic entertainment at Oro Fino Hall to-[illegible] evening. She will probably be supported by [illegible] of the Carlton & Edwards troupe, mentioned [illegible] will appear to-morrow.

On the Boards.—Miss Sue Robinson, well known to [illegible] in Portland "in years agone," is still on [illegible] playing an engagement in Sacramento. [illegible] by far have the patience of audiences in [illegible] than Miss Robinson.

County Court.—The County Court for this county, Hon. P. A. Marquam, County Judge, presiding, will [illegible] next Monday. The Commissioners will meet during the week and probably levy the tax to be raised the [illegible] fiscal year.

[illegible]—Persons intending to send articles to the State Fair by water, especially those of bulk or weight, would do well to send them up next week, as the boats will likely be hurried and crowded during the week of the Fair.

[illegible]—Hon. H. G. Struve, President of the upper house of the Washington Territory Legislature, leaves this city to-day for Olympia to attend the session of the Legislature which will convene next Monday.

Billiard Match.—We learn that a match game of billiards will be played at the Gem Saloon to-morrow evening between Josh Davis and Mr. Skinner, for a purse of $100 and the championship of Oregon.

Due.—The steamer Pacific from San Francisco is now due at this port, but had not arrived at the hour of going to press. She will probably arrive this morning.

Soiree.—Prof. Cardinell will give a soiree at his Dancing Hall on First street, to-morrow evening. These [illegible] are always very pleasant.

Slow.—A Sacramento exchange reached us last night having been on the way since July 28th. A "slow coach," that.

Letter List.—For this document see fourth page.

The Legislature of Washington Territory convenes at Olympia on Monday next. Among the subjects to be considered by the Legislature will be the adoption of a new code of laws for the Territory, which has been for some time under preparation by Elwood Evans, Esq.

Russia and her Feudatory Tribes.

The troubles between the Russian government and its feudatory tribes are apparently never to end. The latest phase of these troubles is the rebellion of the Kirghiz tribes on the Caspian Sea. The following account of these tribes and their rebellion, from the London Telegraph, will be found interesting:

These Kirghiz tribes, or more exactly the lesser horde of the Kirghiz-Kaizaks, have for many years roved at will in the broad plains between the rivers Ural and Ishim—in the summer being near the Orenburg line, and in the winter further south, in the Ust-Urt, and near the Syr-Darya. They are exclusively a nomadic and pastoral people. Until last year their relations to Russia consisted in the payment of a yearly tribute of one and a half roubles for each kibitka or hut, and in an obligation to furnish at a fixed price camels for the army and other government trains which crossed the steppes.

Their internal government was entirely in the hands of the Sultans, or rich aristocratic portion of their tribes, the government appointing them as ruling Sultans, under the direction of a governor stationed at Orenburg, who for the past few years has been General Ballusek, formerly ambassador to China. Their laws were their own. Their aristocracy were content with this arrangement. They adopted some of the refinements of European civilization, built themselves houses in the steppe in which they passed the winter, and ruled the people in the ordinary despotic, Asiatic way, exacting a tribute four times greater than that fixed by the government. The government remembering the complete success which had attended the conversion of the Bashkirs from a nomadic to an agricultural people, unwilling to bear any longer with the misrule of the Sultans, and urged by the Moscow Gazette and men of the liberal party resolved to give another organization to the steppes, and prepare the way for better things. A special commission was therefore established to investigate the affairs of the Kirghizes, and prepare a new system of government.

This project was finished last winter, and was of a very democratic nature. The steppe of the Orenburg Kirghizes was divided into two provinces, and each province into districts, volosts, and auls or villages. The free movement of the Kirghizes through the steppe was thus somewhat restricted, special permission from the chief of the district being necessary to pass from one volost to another. Justice was to be administered by judges elected by the Kirghizes themselves, though without the concurrence of the higher aristocracy, on the basis of local customs. The religious legislative power has never existed in the steppe, and the Kirghizes are thus free from any religious influence coming from the Central Asiatic Khanates. The religion is under the direction of the Grand Mufti, living at Uta; but the Mullahs are chosen by the people, with the approval of the government. The only control exercised over the religion was that no mosque could be constructed without permission.

The new project, which was on the whole a good plan for the civilization of an inferior race somewhat resembling the North American Indian, was brought to Orenburg during the winter, and a committee of organization was appointed to introduce the reform. This committee included men of all classes, some unacquainted with the steppe and its affairs, and others knowing them well; but among them were, unfortunately, several Cossacks of the Ural, between whom and the Kirghizes exists a virulent feud, partly ancient and inherited, and partly arising from their recent dispute for the left bank of the Ural River, in which the Cossacks were victorious.

The committee of organization went in the winter to the most distant parts of the steppe, where the Kirghizes then were, and returned with favorable reports. Suddenly, towards spring, people were startled with the news that there were commotions in the steppe, but it was thought that they were disturbances created by a few individuals, and would pass off of themselves. Soon, however, news was received by every post that the Kirghizes were sending their families and herds into the Ust-Urt steppe, and were forming bands to act against the Russians.

Attacks were made on various points; that of Emba was fortunately relieved in time, but at Goryatchef the garrison were killed. Fears were entertained for the safety of the Iletzk salt works, and at Orenburg many people regretted the destruction of the ancient wall. The post route from Orenburg to Tachkent was blockaded, the horses were stolen, and the stations destroyed. All of the tribes were in revolt except the Turkaisky district and the Tchiklinsky tribe in the Irghizsky district, which latter was commanded by a pardoned brigand and rebel on condition of continued fidelity to the crown. Battalions were then sent into the steppe in various directions, but they generally advance without opposition; meanwhile the Kirghiz bands are scouring the steppe somewhere else.

The Cossacks, who, from their hatred to the Kirghizes, enter into active service with great readiness and delight, wish to make an expedition into the Ust-Urt, capture the cattle, and burn the auls; but this seems to the government to be too barbarious. It is, however, the only true remedy. Colonel Stempel, with two hundred Cossacks and two cannon, was sent out to protect the fair held on the river Uil. When he reached there he was surrounded by a force of twenty thousand mounted Kirghizes. There was no water in the camp, and ten brave Cossacks who tried to pass the lines and give information to the nearest garrison were killed; an officer who attempted the same thing, disguised as a Kirghiz, shared the same fate. Finally they resolved to cut their way through, and succeeded with small loss in reaching Kalmykovskaya, on the Ural. Of the 20,000 Kirghizes, not 1,500 were armed with firearms.

The worst results of this rebellion are the bad effects on trade. Commerce with Central Asia is obliged to take the circuitous route through Semiplatinsk. A caravan from Bukhara of three hundred camels arrived at Orsk with only ninety: and this is the only caravan which has arrived this year. Even were the roads kept open there are no camels to be had, as they are kept back by the Kirghizes. There is no Bukharan cotton or silk to be procured, and no market for the Russian manufactures. A commerce which in 1867 amounted to over thirty millions of rubles is practically at a standstill. Some seven millions' worth of goods are annually bought by the Kirghizes from Russian merchants. The results for the Kirghizes themselves are no less serious. Their herds, which are their chief wealth, are shut up where there are no good pastures, especially for such a mass of cattle.

To Hebrew Parents—Religious Instruction.—Dr. Eckman has commenced imparting religious instruction to the children of those parents who may be desirous of committing their children under the (almost paternal) care of a man whose truly religious character and simplicity have ever more extraordinarily attuned his mind to that of simple childhood, and exercised a "magnetic" power over the juveniles brought within his influence which unregenerate minds can never acquire. The instructions will, till the new Synagogue will be completed, be given at the Washington Armory Hall, next building to the Portland Library. Till then, they will be given on the Sabbath and Holy days, after the close of the regular morning service.

By order of the President.

THE EQUALIZER!

Treating Disease by Vacuum

DR. H. A. BODMAN

HAVING PURCHASED HADFIELD'S EQUALIZER and the Patent Right for Multnomah county, would respectfully inform his friends and the public generally that he is prepared to treat [illegible] fully those Chronic cases on whom all other means of cure have failed.

Having used this Instrument in connection with his practice for about three months, he is satisfied that it will accomplish all that is claimed for it in curing Chronic Diseases. He does not believe in the system of advertising cures, but any number of such may be seen on record at his office, consisting principally of Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Curvature of the Spine, Nervous Debility, Dyspepsia, Weak Chests, Asthma, Narrow Chests, Weak Lungs, Weak Backs, Weak and Rheumatic Limbs, [illegible] Sprains, Epilepsy, Palsy, St. Vitus Dance, Prolapsus Uteri, Obstructed Menstruation, with all their [illegible] Impotency and all kinds of weakness of the Generative Organs, Spermatorrhoea confidently cured in from four to six weeks without medicine.

He uses other remedies when necessary, but the Equalizer generally performs the cure without the aid of any medicine whatever. It brings a greater supply of blood and nutrition to all weak parts, thus creating new life and tone, and health, and strength in those parts. It breaks up congestion and inflammation by equalizing the circulation throughout every part of the system.

Give it a fair trial and you will be satisfied with the results. It has been examined by thousands of physicians of all Schools of Medicine, and there has not been one dissenting voice to the correctness of the principle; all acknowledge that it fills a vacuum in the Science of Medicine.

CALIFORNIA OREGON AND THE NORTHWEST

[Concluded]

Returning to Olympia, we spent the Sunday (July 11) there Before leaving my notice of this region let me adduce a few figures as to its temperature I had often thought, as doubtless others have that the pleasantest climate must be one in which the cold of winter while bracing should never be excessive and the warmth of summer, while enough for all purposes of vegetation should never be exhausting and debilitating Just such a climate is that of Puget Sound Of Steilacoom, 23 miles from Olympia the mean temperature of the four seasons has been given in comparison with those recorded in New York Quebec and Norfolk Va

	Latitude	Spring	Summer	Autumn	Wint
Steilacoom	47 deg N	49 deg	62 deg	51 deg	39
New York	40	48m	48	72	64	31
Quebek	46	49	40	68	45	10
Norfolk	37	56	[illegible]	61	40

The cause of this warmth in so high a latitude is generally attributed to the influence of the Pacific Gulf stream, which, following the N E coast of Asia, deflects on our N W coast just as the Atlantic Gulf stream is know to modify the climate of Great Britain and Northwestern Europe

We had an opportunity, on our way back to Portland to diminish the amount of stage travel by riding down the Cowlitz river about 25 miles in a canoe manned by two Indians Our party of six with Captain Ainsworth, Senator Corbett Geo F Train and his secretary made in all ten passengers, and we all agreed that it was a delightful part of our traveling experience in the great West.

EASTWARD BOUND—THE COLUMBIA

Early in the morning of Wednesday July 14 we left Portland on an eastward route We were once more the favored guests of Captain Ainsworth who accompanied us to the Cascades Our steamer was a large stern wheeler, handsomely furnished and with powerful engines, and I may as well here say that this day's ride on the Columbia river was one full of pleasure The scenery, in beauty, in grandeur in variety I may say in magnificence—exceeded any that I remember ever to have seen and it is my deliberate opinion that for the lover of the beautiful and sublime who has time and money at his command, this ride alone would repay him for a journey of 3 000 miles Passing directly down the Willamette into the Columbia we soon reached Vancouver, still occupied by a small garrison as a United States military post. The Cascade range of mountains, 3,000 feet high, with Mount Hood, 14,000 feet in elevation, as its crowning glory, began to be visible shortly after leaving Vancouver The river, nearly or quite a mile wide, passes through basaltic rock, of most picturesque and striking forms, now huge pinnacles or great castles, then gigantic steppes or towering pyramids, ever changing their aspect as we approach them or recede from them, and in each new view disclosing new beauty The Multnomah Fall, or "Bridal Veil," though far inferior to the falls in the Valley of the Yosemite, is a cataract of exquisite beauty, coming as if out of the side of rocks 1,200 feet high, at an elevation of perhaps 500 feet, and making one leap of perhaps 860 feet in an unbroken shower of emerald and liquid alabaster, thence descending gradually to the river In seasons in which the winter snows and spring rains fall in their usually quantity, it must be much grander than it is this summer A little beyond this another little stream descends not in one unbroken sheet, but gliding, leaping, laughing down the mountain side, for 150 feet or more, until it is lost to sight among the rocks One of the Portland editors, who was in the party, gave it the name of the "Emma-see" Fall, in honor of Mrs. Senator Corbett, who, with us was enjoying its beauty. I will not stop to speak of Castle Rock, an eminence of 1,400 feet, covering forty acres, which we understood to have been lately purchased by our friend Mr. Philip Ritz, (U. S. Marshal of Washington Territory, nor of any other of the hundreds of objects of interest that attracted our admiration as we proceeded. At 11 55 A M we left the steamer for a railroad portage of five miles, a road constructed seven years ago, and having a peculiarity in its moveable terminus, adapted to the varying stages of water in the river Its necessity will be understood, when we remember that the rise, in the spring floods, is no less than sixty feet above the level in the latter part of summer. Another steamer, the Oneonta, built upon the spot five years ago and elegantly furnished, was ready to take us about fifty miles further up the Columbia. Soon after leaving the Cascades we saw in the stream the remains of a sunken forest, giving probability to the Indian tradition that once the river flowed, uninterrupted, through a chasm in the mountains, a vast natural bridge spanning the chasm; but that, through the fall of this immense mass of rocks the river was dammed, and so the "Cascades," or great rapids of the Columbia, were produced

An incident occurred as we went up the river that afternoon, which is worth while to notice as affording testimony in regard to the climate of this region. The boat "rounded to" at a point where no settlement could be seen, the only objects in sight being two large canvas-covered packs, such as are usually seen on the animals in a pack-train These contained ice, brought on mules from an ice-cave in one of the high mountains! and this was the usual means of obtaining a supply of this luxury, here in 45½ deg. N. latitude. The Columbia is scarcely ever frozen over below "the Dalles," at least, the ice is seldom of such thickness as to interfere with navigation

The river, between the Cascades and the Dalles, runs through a basaltic formation, in which steep rocks came in many places close to the river's edge. I have said but little in regard to what belongs to the province of the engineer, but I could not but notice, in this section, the very great obstacles that existed interfering with the construction of a railroad near the river The table lands, on either side, are of great elevation, and to build at a height to be clear of the spring floods, would require, I think, deep cuts and long tunnels, and no small amount of trestle work But as to such topics Mr. Roberts will speak to better purpose.

At the Dalles (121 miles from Portland) we again leave the steamboat for a railroad portage. Capt. Ainsworth's courtesy and that of Mr Reed placed at our disposal a locomotive car, so that we could go on, or stop, at pleasure Before leaving the Dalles we visited the extensive, complete and well ordered shops and offices connected with this great corporation, where we found every appliance at hand needed for repair or for construction, whether by the carpenter, the car builder, the steamboat builder or the machinist, in any department requiring his skill. It seemed strange, indeed, to visit such an establishment in what most of our countrymen think an inaccessible northern wilderness. It speaks volumes for the energy and enterprise of the men of the Northwest. The "Dalles" were long looked upon as an impassable barrier preventing any communication along the line of the Columbia river In truth, this whole country has been the scene of the most violent volcanic activity. Basaltic rocks in immense masses, appear to have been upheaved—probably in a molten state,—and then submerged and again thrown up, disintegrated and torn into fragments of every shape. In some places there are enormous heaps of the finest sand, which the wind tosses into most fantastic forms, and which call for much care and patience on the part of the railroad operators In other spots soil has accumulated and a healthy vegetation has covered the sands About seven miles from the Dalles we left the car and clambered over the rough rocks to see the river, far below us, passing through a narrow gorge. Above and below, it more than a mile in width, here, it contracts into a bed of about two hundred feet wide. It is not easy to describe or to imagine the wild magnificence of the scene

MOUNT HOOD

This morning again we enjoyed a most glorious view of Mount Hood The whole of the mountain could not be seen an intervening ridge of the mountains cutting it off sharply at a line which I conjecture to be about 4,000 feet above its base, But we could see probably 8 000 or 10 000 feet of its height, and of that much more than half was covered with resplendent snow

The river above Celilo, as well as below, runs between irregular basaltic rocks, backed up by loftier hills, sometimes sloping gently, more often abrupt and precipitous The country however, opens as we ascend, and we see, on the lower hills and on the flats, great numbers of horses and many cattle grazing This region is said to be one in which stock raising is exceedingly profitable The cattle requiring little care and very seldom need have food provided for them even in the winter; One drawback on this part of the valley is the absence of timber They are compelled to go 20 or 30 miles to get that which is suitable for fire-wood, and there is no coal known within any convenient distance

We passed many lodges of the Yakima Indians, near the river bank They seem to be an idle shiftless race and to live in squalid poverty, their chief wealth being their horses. They use largely a coarse straw matting of their own manufacture, making of it the walls and even the roofs of their wigwams

We pass no town of any size until we come to Umatilla, and this has but about 250 inhabitants It is the point of departure of the stage coach line through Idaho to the Central Pacific Railroad, There is a reservation of the Umatilla Indians south of this place, about 800 of them residing in a tract of about 100 square miles They own it is said, 700 horses.

We found the river at this point 16 feet below its usual level at this season Our Captain said it had not been so low for many years There was so little snow last winter that the mountains do not afford the ordinary supply to the springs and the tributary streams

The Captain who is familiar with all this region has much to say in praise of its adaptedness to stock raising. The cattle turned out to graze during the winter came in fat as if they were stall fed in the spring The dry grass cured by the sun and the air is full of nutriment and they eat it with the greatest relish Where we see seeming barrenness we also see horses and cattle feeding and in excellent condition The little gullies in the mountain sides all have beautiful verdure

He tells us that he has taken a boat up the river 3[illegible] miles above Celilo [illegible] miles above the mouth of the Willamette A boat built up in Idaho on the Snake river came down this summer notwithstanding the low water Last year the boats of this line ran regularly until the 10th of August to Lewiston (nearly 150 miles farther than we could go). We reached our river terminus Wallula W T, about 9 30 P M and the next morning early (July 1[illegible]) we took stage for Walla Walla It was a warm and dusty ride through a country now parched but in which there is most excellent farming land The Walla Walla valley, I learn is about eighty by forty miles in extent and although in 46 deg north latitude it is capable of producing all the grains and fruits of the temperate zone Peaches sweet potatoes and grapes of kinds which near Philadelphia, require hot house culture are here raised without especial pains The trees and vines bear fruit in two or three years after planting One thousand seven hundred peach trees were in bearing on one farm These fruits are sent to the mining regions, where they command large prices

GARDENING AND FRUIT RAISING

We spent several days in Walla Walla, during which we made careful and extensive inquiries as to the resources and capabilities of these regions and of the whole country lying north and west of this valley We made it a point to learn facts as to climate the snows of winter, the effect of the summer dryness, the general health of the inhabitants, etc The result of these investigations will be given fully in Mr Roberts report One fact indelibly impressed on me is this that out of the seeming aridness and barrenness of these sage bearing plains judicious culture can develop astonishing fertility Mr Ritz has a most beautiful garden farm with every variety of trees and vegetables and these prolific beyond almost anything I had ever seen in the East and this made out of what, at first sight, might have been thought a prairie of sand and ashes, capable only of nourishing sage-bush or stunted grass He had availed himself indeed, of the pure streams which flow so copiously out of the mountains using them for purposes of irrigation But even without this artificial supply of water, there seems to be, either in the soil or the air (or in both) that which stimulates healthy growth so as to reward abundantly the labors of the husbandman I visited a field about 12 or 15 miles north of Walla Walla, that had been broken up and planted for the first time There had been no irrigation used, and no rain, except a very slight shower had fallen on it since the day it was planted I walked through the finely pulverized soil as if through ashes Yet I saw a full crop of beans on the vines I saw locust trees 18 to 24 inches in height, raised this year from the seed I saw young apple trees grape vines &c., &c, all doing remarkable well and I must confess that I was astonished at the sight If in a drought, without irrigation—in this exceptional season—there is such growth, what must it be when the winter snows in the mountains and the spring rains afford the usual moisture? I saw in Mr Ritz's grounds poplars, etc, 40 feet in height, which had been planted from the slip only four years, and very large locust trees of about the same age.

Leaving Walla Walla on Tuesday, July 20th, I reached Waitsburg (or Delta), in the Touchet valley, that afternoon They were in the midst of their wheat harvest, and finer grain I never expect to see. Mr Perkins brought me some heads of wheat that surprised me greatly by their beauty and their weight. He expected the field in which it grew to yield 50 or 60 bushels to the acre, weighing 60 pounds to the bushel. This field had had the benefit of irrigation.

On Wednesday, the 21st, I joined a party for a ride to Toucanon creek 20 miles northeast We found quite a caravan; Six "North Pacific" men on horseback; Mr. Ritz and Mr Dugan in two horse carriages, seven pack mules and half a dozen others, including coolies, etc., etc all mounted We ascended and descended high hills (almost mountains) seeing a vast extent of country admirably fitted for grazing; some of it, doubtless, capable of becoming good land, In all the day's ride we had not passed a house, nor a traveler. The country is all waiting to be opened for settlement.

My first evening and night's experience in "camping out" was to me very pleasant I have already given you my reasons for deciding to return home, instead of going through with the party. That decision was reached with unfeigned—indeed, with painful—reluctance I trust that it was, in your opinion, justified by the facts of the case, for I still believe, on careful review, that my return was for the best interests of the expedition.

IDAHO AND MONTANA.

In Walla Walla, while waiting for the coach (which would not leave until Friday evening) I had further conversations as to the northern part of Idaho and Montana through which lies the proposed railroad route Of all that region I may here say, the testimony of the residents in the N W is uniform, that a very large portion of it embraces some of the most desirable agricultural land in the United States, that its climate, summer and winter, is remarkably moderate, that snows are light except in the higher mountains, that the passes are of low elevation, attainable by easy grades, and open at all seasons, that no finer grazing country can be found, and that what is needed for the development of the Northwest is—the means of bringing in settlers, and of carrying to market the ample produce which labor can so easily obtain from the soil, or from the varied operations of husbandry and manufactures One of our stage drivers, speaking of the large harvest he had obtained from a few acres, said, 'I have several hundred acres more of excellent land, but why should I cultivate it when I cannot get any grain to market?"

During my stay in Walla Walla, I spent much time in conversing with surveyors and mountaineers as to the character of the different passes through the mountains of Idaho and Montana With the aid of such maps as I could obtain I traced the various courses suggested as most feasible for a railroad route Of this, at least I became well satisfied that no decision should be reached as to the location of a route from the Columbia to the Missouri without a careful preliminary survey of a line much more directly east than that which our exploring party is now visiting You doubtless have information as to the passes and the streams gathered from various sources, but it seems to me well worth while to reinvestigate the desirableness of a route passing near Lewiston, and up or near the valley of the Clearwater, thence approaching Helena in Montana crossing the Missouri and striking the valley of the Yellow Stone at the westernmost point (about 46 deg N lat) at which it can advantageously be reached This route so far as I can learn, is quite as practicable as that already proposed and would shorten greatly the land carriage through the summer and the fall, and indeed, through the whole year

DAIRY FARMS IN OREGON

My course homeward was through N [illegible] Oregon Idaho and Utah to the Union Pacific Railroad at Kelton 40 miles west of Promontory, another stage coach ride of almost 500 miles I found this part of Oregon in the main, very much inferior to that directly south of Portland, and far more sparsely settled Still I passed through a country, in the valley of the Umatilla and that of the Grande Ronde in which there were hundreds of thousands of acres of land where thousands of cattle were feeding on the prairies and where in ordinary seasons the wheat harvests are immense The drought this year had ruined many fields but this I have reason to believe is exceptional In all this country the cattle need little or no winter care At one ranch in the midst of a great prairie we found a dairy where 60 milch cows are tended and butter is made in large quantities Hundreds of steers and oxen were feeding and thriving notwithstanding the drought Some of the canyons through which we passed (especially Burnt river canyon) rivaled in grandeur and in wild beauty those of Western Oregon Roads have been made through them at immense cost, and heavy tolls are required to maintain them and repay even the interest on the outlay for their construction As soon as this country becomes settled, and in the process of settlement its travel and traffic must form an important element in the business of a North Pacific road especially if that road should cross the Snake river near Lewiston The valleys of the Payette and the Boise (tributaries of the Snake river) have already many fine farms even the best of them however are somewhat dependent on artificial irrigation

THE NORTH PACIFIC ROUTE

First—There seems to me no doubt that there should be and will be another large city on the Pacific coast Take this fact that from the southernmost boundary of California to the line of British Columbia is a coast reaching through 16½ degrees of latitude not less I suppose—if we follow the indentations of the land—than [illegible] miles This line—of California Oregon and Washington Territory—equals that of all the Atlantic States from Maine to Georgia inclusive, or all excepting Florida The commerce between Asia and the United States will not all find its [illegible] far south as San Francisco That by sailing vessels must under the currents of wind and water seek Puget Sound or the Columbia river, in preference to any harbor south of the latter The timber and the fisheries on the Sound will of themselves attract a large population, where [illegible] those waters is almost sure to become a mart,

Second—There can be no reasonable doubt in my mind that Montana and upper Idaho will be rapidly settled and that mining agriculture and stock raising will combine in employing and supporting hundreds of thousands whose traffic will find an outlet toward the Pacific almost if not quite as largely as towards the Atlantic To bring in tens of thousands of laborers from Asia and like or greater numbers from the Atlantic States will give large employment to a North Pacific Railroad The facilities for transporting machinery and supplies of every kind will rapidly develop the mining regions in these Territories Now the impossibility of bringing in the ponderous engines needed for certain operations in the mines acts as almost an embargo on the profitable prosecution of the business

Third—The climate of these regions will of itself be largely attractive to a considerable class of settlers From all that I can learn, it is for the most part remarkably healthy There are no records show, no such extremes of temperature as are common in New England and the Middle States When farmers are satisfied that instead of feeding cattle for six months on stores which it has cost the labor of the other six months to procure, they can use, in ordinary seasons the bounteous provisions which the God of Nature has made ready for use without labor when they find that some of the best land in the Union can be obtained at merely nominal cost, when they are assured that they can reach these lands with their households and their furniture at a moderate expense when facilities are afforded them for the interchange of their own productions with those of regions east and west i e when they can reach markets, either to buy or sell, quickly easily and cheaply,—then they will certainly in great numbers seek homes in the genial, attractive beautiful Northwest

I appreciate much more clearly than I did the difficulties in making such a line of railroad reaching over thousands of miles profitable to the stockholders I see the vast difference between the working of a road through hundreds of miles of wilderness, and that of one through a thickly settled region like that of New York or Ohio, or Illinois If the Government should aid in its construction by the gift of lands or the loan of credit, that fact ought to be taken into account by the corporators and in their estimate of reasonable profits to be expected they should not do (what I believe some corporations have done) ignore the gifts received and demand large interest on the actual cost of making the road, just as if all had been their own outlay Gifts of land from the Government to a corporation that would open up for settlement a country which else must remain a wilderness, would evidently be a true policy for the nation But large minded men, anxious to keep faith with the people, will be all the more ready to make these franchises and largesses effective for the ends for which they were bestowed Such men I suppose to be those who are incorporated for building the North Pacific Railroad They are, I trust, men who will not be greedy for large and immediate returns, for should they be such, they would, it seems to me defeat the very ends for which they have combined.
